Shull Receives Top Honors

Harrisonburg, VA – The City of Harrisonburg is proud to announce the most recent recognition of one of its own.

Brian Shull, City's Economic Development Director, recently received the Cardinal Award by the Virginia Economic Developers Association (VEDA).

The Cardinal Award is the most prestigious award given by VEDA to its deserving members. This award recognizes leadership in the field of economic development, outstanding professional accomplishments, and exceptional service to the organization itself.

"We are proud of Brian for receiving this award and are honored that he is part of our team," said Kurt Hodgen, City Manager. "His leadership continues to move the Harrisonburg-Rockingham region forward in economic growth and development."

Shull has been a member of VEDA for 25 years and served as President of the organization from 1996-1997. Over the past 26 years, there have been 34 Cardinal Award recipients named. He also currently serves as the Treasurer of the Shenandoah Valley Partnership.

More information about VEDA is available at www.goveda.org. Information about Economic Development in the City of Harrisonburg is posted online at www.HarrisonburgDevelopment.com.

The City of Harrisonburg is centrally located in the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia. It is home to approximately 50,000 people. More information about the City of Harrisonburg is online at www.HarrisonburgVA.gov.
