City Seeks Input through Online Survey

Harrisonburg, VA – The City of Harrisonburg is aiming to collect feedback on how citizens keep informed. The survey is located on Be Heard Harrisonburg, the city's online discussion and idea forum.

The city strives to engage and inform all community members. In an effort to keep its residents informed with most current information, the city is asking citizens to complete a short survey.

This survey will be available to the entire community until Sunday, November 30, 2014 at midnight. We encourage all community members to participate so we can learn how we can better reach our audience.

An online survey has been created and is available at www.BeHeardHarrisonburg.org.
