Portion of Carlton Street Reopens Next Week

Harrisonburg, Va. – The Public Works Department is making progress on the construction of the Carlton Street Improvement Project, which began in April.

Since June, a portion of South Carlton Street was closed to allow construction crews to begin working on the roundabout and other improvements included within this project.

On Monday, August 10, South Carlton Street will reopen to all traffic, although this will be a temporary route until the roundabout is complete.

An interactive animation map to better understand how roundabouts work by car, bike and walking available at www.HarrisonburgVA.gov/carlton-street.

It is anticipated that the project will be completed by the end of November.
