City Seeks Additional Members for Committee

Harrisonburg, Va. – The city of Harrisonburg invites community members to apply for the Environmental Performance Standards Advisory Committee.

This committee was formed in 2016 to provide guidance and recommendations to city council in the establishment of environmental performance standards. The committee has been working with staff for the past two years on an Environmental Action Plan and now additional members are sought to ensure the Plan is representative of the community's diversity and values.

The Environmental Action Plan address sustainable transportation, land use, regional food systems, waste reduction and recycling, building standards and energy efficiency, and water quality. The city is encouraging citizens that are active in their communities and that have an interest in these topics to apply.
