

HARRISONBURG DOWNTOWN TECHNOLOGY ZONE

DOWNTOWN TECHNOLOGY ZONE

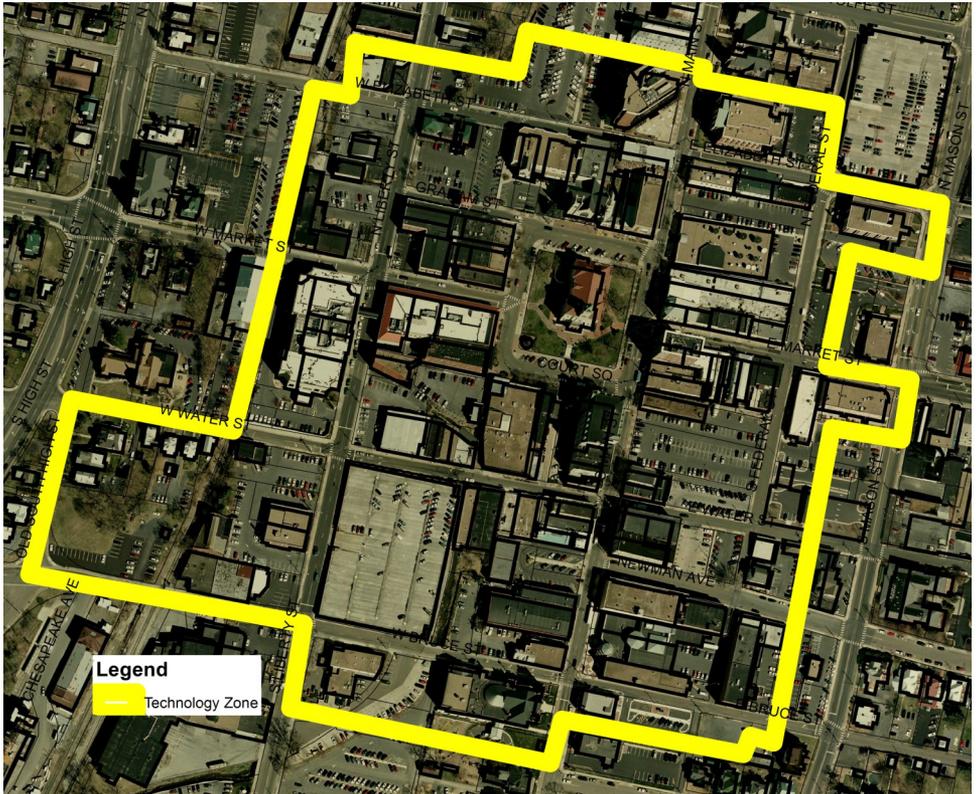

The Harrisonburg Downtown Technology Zone (HDTZ) was created to support innovation and technology within Harrisonburg. The zone offers incentives to both attract and retain technology-based firms.

Incentives for locating within the HDTZ:

- Three-year business, professional, and occupational license tax/fee exemption.
- Water and sewer connection fee exemption. Partial exemption for certain rehabilitations, renovations, or replacements of structures no less than twenty-five (25) years of age.
- Assistance in securing incentives through federal and state assistance programs.

Harrisonburg's Economic Development Department serves as an active partner with businesses in the city, providing incentives and resources for start-ups, small businesses, and large corporations alike.

We also help business owners determine the best financing options and programs for their companies. Contact us today to learn how we can help your business or career.

Here is a cross-section of innovative firms located in the HDTZ:

"We have the best of both worlds: we get to work with clients up and down the Valley, as well as Richmond and D.C., and also nationally and internationally AND live in the Valley. World-class talent doesn't always want to live in a "big city," and world-class clients just know you show up in their in-box or walking through their door."

-Joey Groah, DIGICO Shoot | Post | Design
