HPD Investigates Counterfeit Checks and Currency

HARRISONBURG, VA - In September of 2021, a local business contacted the Harrisonburg Police Department to report a series of suspected counterfeit checks. Detectives from HPD's Major Crimes Unit began investigating and discovered that counterfeit checks had actually been passed at several local businesses and banks in Harrisonburg.

At face value, the checks appeared to be legitimate payroll checks originating from a company called Black Clover Sweeps of Harrisonburg. All of the checks returned as fraudulent. Black Clover Sweeps is portrayed as an online gaming business.

As the investigation continued, detectives learned that counterfeit money was also circulating through some area businesses. Both investigations began to overlap and were determined to be connected. On February 25, 2022, a search warrant was executed in the 500 block of Sterling Street which resulted in the seizure of multiple counterfeit checks and currency.

Arrest warrants were subsequently issued for:

- La'Tasha Cephas-Chavis, 33 of Harrisonburg, for twelve counts of Forgery/Uttering and six counts of Obtaining Money by False Pretenses. Cephas-Chavis is also wanted on a Capias for her failure to appear in court.
- Giovanni Lopez, 27 of Harrisonburg, is wanted for four counts of Forgery/Uttering and two counts of Obtaining Money by False Pretenses.
- Michael Zromkoski, 23 of Harrisonburg, is wanted on five counts of Forgery/Uttering and two counts of Obtaining Money by False Pretenses.
