

Officer Rescue

COURSE:

- All 6 team members will be staged in a starting box. Prior to the start of the event Operators will be paired up and designated Red Team, White Team, Blue Team. The Red Team will only be allowed to shoot at Red Target arrays, Blue with Blue, White with White.
- On command of "GO," Operators will proceed through the obstacle course and return to the staging area. All equipment used during the competition must go with the team as they move through the event.
- Team members will move to the staging area. Once a team member is inside the staging area they may put down any tool they were carrying and leave it in the staging area during the shooting portion of the event.
- Once both members of the corresponding team are in the staging area they may don their gas mask. That team can move to their shooting station. (EX: Both Red Team members must be in the staging area with gas masked donned prior to leaving to shooting station. As the Blue team and White team enter the staging box they may don their gas masks and can move to the shooting station as a pair.) One member of each team will shoot through the doorway presented to them from a standing position. The other team member will shoot from a kneeling position, one or both knees must be in contact with the ground, at the ½ threshold presented to them. Each team member can only shoot the target array in front of them. The thresholds may not be used as a barricade, and you cannot shoot around the thresholds. Operators will shoot 4 rounds on each target in the target zone that is marked. (Hint: you will need to mag change in order to complete the event.) After operators have fired all 12 rounds, they must drop magazines, show clear, and holster before continuing.
- After a team has finished engaging their targets, they can leave their shooting station and begin to move the downed officer to the finish line. All tools and equipment that started with the team must finish with the team.
- Time is called when all operators and equipment and downed officers have crossed the finish line.
